

ANNIE'S SONG - John Denver

You fill up my senses, like a night in the forest
Like a mountain in springtime, like a walk in the rain.
Like a storm in the desert, like a sleepy blue ocean,
You fill up my senses. Come fill me again.

Come, let me love you, let me give my life to you.
Let me drown in your laughter, let me die in your arms.
Let me lay down beside you, let me always be with you.
Come let me love you, come love me again.

INSTRUMENTAL BREAK – FIRST VERSE, with humming

You fill up my senses, like a night in the forest
Like a mountain in springtime, like a walk in the rain.
Like a storm in the desert, like a sleepy blue ocean,
You fill up my senses. Come fill me again.
You fill up my senses. Come fill me again.

Per Wikipedia, this a "folk rock and country song," written in 1973 and recorded in 1974 by John Denver. It was written as an ode to Denver's wife at the time, Annie Martell Denver. She says "He left to go skiing and he got on the Ajax chair on Aspen mountain and the song just came to him. He skied down and came home and wrote it down... Initially it was a love song and it was given to me through him, and yet for him it became a bit like a prayer."
