

BACK HOME AGAIN - John Denver

There's a storm across the valley. Clouds are rollin' in. The afternoon is heavy on your shoulders.

There's a truck out on the four lane, a mile or more away. The whining of his wheels just makes it colder.

He's an hour away from ridin' on your prayers up in the sky. Ten days on the road are barely gone.

There's a fire softly burning, suppers on the stove, and the light in your eyes keeps him warm.

CHORUS:

Hey it's good to be back home again. Sometimes this old farm feels like a long-lost friend. Yes, and hey it's good to be back home again.

There's all the news to tell him, how'd you spend your time and what's the latest thing the neighbors say.

And your Mother called last Friday, sunshine made her cry. And you felt the baby move just yesterday.

CHORUS

And oh, the time that I can lay this tired old body down and feel your fingers feather soft upon me. The kisses that I live for, the love that lights my way – the happiness that livin' with you brings me.

It's the sweetest thing I know of, just spending time with you. It's the little things that make a house a home. Like a fire softly burning and supper's on the stove, and the light in your eyes still keeps me warm.

CHORUS, then "Hey it's good to be back home again."

John Denver's 8th studio album, entitled Back Home Again, was released in 1974 and included hit singles Back Home Again, Annie's Song and Thank God I'm a Country Boy. John's then wife, Ann Martell, is shown with him on the album cover.
