

SCOTCH AND SODA – Dave Guard

Scotch and soda, mud in your eye. Baby do I feel high,
Oh me oh my, do I feel high.

Dry martini, jigger of gin, oh what a spell you've got me in,
Oh my, do I feel high.

People won't believe me. They'll think that I'm just braggin'.

But I could feel the way I do and still be on the wagon.

All I need is one of your smiles, sunshine of your eyes,
Oh me oh my, do I feel higher than a kite can fly!
Give me lovin', baby, I feel high.

People won't believe me. They'll think that I'm just
braggin'.

But I could feel the way I do and still be on the wagon.

All I need is one of your smiles, sunshine of your eyes,
Oh me oh my, do I feel higher than a kite can fly!
Give me lovin', baby, I feel high.

Give me lovin', baby, I feel high.

Per Wikipedia: "Scotch and Soda" was discovered by The Kingston Trio through Tom Seaver's parents, who had first heard it in a hotel piano lounge in 1932 when on their honeymoon in Phoenix, Arizona. They liked it so much that they had the piano player write it down for them so it would be "their song." One member of the Trio, Dave Guard, was dating Seaver's older sister, Katie, at that time and heard the song on a visit to the Seaver home. Although it is credited to Guard, the trio never discovered the real songwriter's name, though they searched for years.
