

ON THE ROAD AGAIN²⁸

WILLIE NELSON

In 2004, Willie Nelson and his wife Annie became partners in the building of two Pacific Biodiesel Plants, one in Salem, Oregon, and the other at Carl's Corner, Texas. In 2005, Nelson and several other business partners formed Willie Nelson Biodiesel (also known as BioWillie), a company that is marketing Biodiesel biofuel to truck stops. The fuel is made from vegetable oils, mainly soybeans, and can be burned without modification in diesel engines.
